

Welcome to 2012 World of Concrete

2012 CIM Auction In Two Days!

The biggest Concrete Industry Management (CIM) Auction ever is only two days away! The 2012 CIM Auction at the World of Concrete features dozens of items for everyone in the concrete industry.

The CIM Auction Committee has added donations from all aspects of the industry. Suppliers and producers alike have stepped forward with donations that range from the signature Mack Truck equipped with a McNeilus Company concrete mixer to concrete construction equipment and supplies.

This year's CIM Auction, in addition to the previously mentioned equipment, parts, materials, construction software and supplies, includes sports and vacation packages and much, much more! For a complete list of Auction items, visit the CIM website Auction page!

Not going to the World of Concrete? You can still bid on these sports and travel items by bidding online at the Ritchie Bros. website: www.rbauuction.com. You must register a week in advance for the online bidding.

Mack Trucks and McNeilus Company Donate Truck and Mixer

CIM is pleased to announce that once again, the signature item for the seventh annual auction at World of Concrete is a Mack Truck model GU813 equipped with a McNeilus 11-cubic-yard concrete mixer donated by Mack Trucks, Inc. and McNeilus Co., a Division of Oshkosh Truck. "To have a signature item such as this truck chassis donated by Mack Truck and an 11-cubic-yard concrete mixer donated by McNeilus Company is the strong foundation needed to help ensure a successful CIM Auction at the 2012 World of Concrete," said Eugene Martineau, CIM Auction Committee Chairman. "The fact that these two industry leading manufacturers have donated the ready mix truck and mixer speaks volumes of their commitment to the concrete industry and the importance they

AUCTIONS DONE RIGHT.

At WOC? Stop By Artistry Event To See "East Meets West"

After two successful years of Concrete Industry Management Student Artistry projects at World of Concrete, a team of students from the CIM University consortium is ready to embark on the 2012 project. Past projects have included a 10-foot tall concrete memorial to the firefighters who lost their lives in New York City on 9/11 for WOC 2010 and an 8-foot tall replica of the first lighthouse on the west coast at Alcatraz Island during WOC 2011.

The project for WOC 2012 will be an "East Meets West" design with portions of the Golden Gate Bridge colliding with the Brooklyn Bridge, representing the CIM programs across the country. The project managers will be Andrew Billingsley and Clark Branum. Andrew is a recent Chico State CIM graduate who is currently teaching in the Chico program before leaving for graduate school next fall. Clark is a recognized expert in decorative concrete who is a lecturer with the Chico program's decorative concrete class and works for Diamatic. Michael Eastergard of Preitech, is donating the formwork for the project as well as his expert industry input for this year's project as he has generously done for the two previous projects.

Stop By Booth NL 15 To Meet the CIM Students!

While at World of Concrete, stop by booth NL15 in the North Lobby of the Las Vegas Convention Center to meet the students and faculty of the Concrete Industry Management (CIM) program.

See the new CIM exhibit booth and chat with the students about new and interesting projects they have completed in 2011 and are working on for 2012!

Mark Your Calendars: CIM Press Conference Provides Program Update

On Tuesday, January 24 at 4:00 p.m., Brian Gallagher, Chairman of the Marketing Committee, will hold a press conference at World of Concrete in Room N251. Gallagher will discuss the "state of the CIM" including many interesting projects CIM students have completed in 2011. The 2010-2011 Annual Report will also be available for distribution.
